

193 GALLERY IS EXPANDING BY 220M2 ON RUE BÉRANGER !

On the lookout for a new approach to artistic practices, 193 Gallery deploys a new space placed under the sign of experimentation. It positions itself in the light of contemporary creation in real time with new curation projects and an open door to large-scale installation projects. Shaking up the classic gallery experience, this second space will open its doors on January 7th 2023 at 21 rue Béranger (literally) across the street, from 11am to 8pm.

193 Gallery is expanding by 220m2 on rue Béranger ! Bold and transgenerational, its programming is in line with its artistic line, travelling since 2018 to the diversity of contemporary scenes around the world. This second gallery will offer every two months a workshop-residency exclusively intended to favour in situ creation as well as meetings between artists, visitors and collectors.

Hyacinthe Ouattara at work during a residency

The first artist invited to create in this workshop-residence, a pure laboratory of ideas and reflection, is the visual artist Hyacinthe Ouattara who represents the colours of Burkina-Faso. Through his art, he embodies an in-between world where old and new worlds meet. His textile-woven sculptural bodies speak of the intangible, while his paintings are permeated by an astonishing harmony.

Jade Fenu, Dancing Chamane, acrylic on linen, 250x200cm

Slumberland, the inaugural exhibition of the space, by visual artist Jade Fenu, will grace the walls of the second space of 193 Gallery. A painting-poem, his dreamlike works approach the material in a constant search for balance, oscillating between strength and fragility. A universal narrative combining the abstract and the figurative: this series shows the abundance of reality and imagination while questioning the current issues of our society.
